School days are the best time in everyone's life. They have so much joy, fun, warmth, love and kindness! The most beautiful person in school is the teacher. He leads his students into the world of knowledge by opening the book of wisdom to them. Teachers should be valued and loved, because they try very hard to be an example and ideal for children, giving all their strength to the younger generation. Savranskaya Nadezhda Sergeevna, the name of our school teacher of Russian language and literature.

An experienced and competent specialist, she paid a lot of attention to us-students and her subject – literature. With high professionalism, she expanded our horizons, instilled a love of reading, instilled in us a sense of patriotism, love for the Motherland, for parents, and respect for our elders.

I have always liked literature lessons very much. I really love to read. When I read, I worry, I rejoice together with the characters, as if for a moment I find myself in that story myself. The lessons that our teacher taught were interesting, informative, they taught us to think correctly, speak, empathize. Our teacher was very creative in preparing the lessons.

I liked the lesson in the form of a discussion, when you could express your point of view, listen to the opinions of others, it seemed to me that the material was also remembered better. The argument taught us to prove our opinion, to accept the point of view of classmates. It happened that we interrupted each other, did not allow us to fully express ourselves, but our teacher taught us to conduct a discussion correctly, freely express our thoughts and listen to each other, because sometimes you don't know how to relate to one or another hero of the work, and for me always it was very important to listen to several points of view in order to understand what is closer for me, to form my own opinion about the hero.

For Nadezhda Sergeevna herself, it was a great happiness to go to work, to her students, in order to once again teach them useful things, give love, kindness, instill a love of reading, teach patience.

Now I remember her and think how much the word Teacher occupies in my soul.

Nadezhda Sergeevna often repeated to us the words of D.I. Mendeleev: "All the pride of the teacher is in the students, in the growth of the seeds sown by him." I want to say that our dear teacher should not be ashamed of us, because each of us is doing what we love

D.I. Mendeleev: "All the pride of the teacher is in the students, in the growth of the seeds sown by him."
